Students need a range of interventions to ensure success.

Now, more than ever before, we have the evidence and experience to show that expanded learning opportunities can improve learning outcomes for young people.

From governors to teachers to parents, more than 100 voices are coming together to share their perspectives on how afterschool and summer learning is contributing to the next generation of learning.

Join Us Tuesday, February 5th, 2013

as we release a new, groundbreaking book featuring essays from more than 100 authors and Executive Editor, Terry K. Peterson, PhD., on how afterschool and summer programs make a difference.

Expanding Minds and Opportunities: Leveraging the Power of Afterschool and Summer Learning for Student Success

An established body of evidence proving how afterschool and summer learning are accelerating student success through:

- Core Academic Learning Outcomes
- Pushing the Leading Edges of Learning
- School-Community Partnerships

Book Signing & Distribution

Attend the event and receive a complimentary copy of the book. Authors will be available to sign.

8:30am – 11:00am

National Press Club

529 14th St NW

Washington, DC

20045

www.expandinglearning.org/expandingminds